- To guide students on transitioning from technical roles to managerial leadership positions.
- To introduce students to the importance of management skills in the built environment industry.
- To provide insights into higher education and professional programs offered by NICMAR.
- To connect students with industry expectations through expert guidance and alumni experiences.

Brief About Event:

An online seminar on “Transition from Technical Roles to Managerial Leadership in the CRIP Sector” was organized for Civil Engineering students in collaboration with NICMAR (National Institute of Construction Management and Research), a premier institute known for its excellence in construction management education and strong industry linkage. The seminar aimed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of career opportunities in the Construction, Real Estate, Infrastructure, and Project (CRIP) sector and to guide them on how to progress from technical roles to managerial leadership positions in the built environment industry.

The session began with a warm and inspiring welcome address by Mr. Amit Bendre, Manager – Business Development. He extended a cordial welcome to the esteemed speaker, Dr.

Event Report

Unnati Agrawal, along with faculty members and participating students. In his address, he highlighted the growing importance of managerial skills in addition to technical knowledge in today's competitive industry environment. He emphasized that engineers must continuously upgrade their skills to meet industry demands and encouraged students to actively engage in the session to gain maximum benefit. He also briefly introduced NICMAR, its legacy of over four decades, its presence across multiple campuses, and its strong association with leading construction and infrastructure companies.

Following the welcome address, Dr. Unnati Agrawal delivered an insightful and engaging session focusing on the evolving dynamics of the CRIP sector. She elaborated on the wide range of career opportunities available and explained the typical career progression from site engineer to managerial and leadership roles. She stressed the importance of developing competencies in areas such as project planning, contract management, financial management, risk assessment, and team leadership. The session also highlighted the role of higher education and specialized programs in construction management, particularly those offered by NICMAR, in equipping students with industry-relevant skills.

Dr. Agrawal further enriched the session by sharing practical examples, real-life case studies, and current industry trends, helping students understand the expectations and challenges of the professional world. The seminar also included an interactive segment where students actively participated and clarified their doubts regarding career planning, higher studies, and skill development.

Overall, the seminar proved to be highly informative, interactive, and beneficial for the students, providing them with valuable insights into career growth, industry requirements, and the pathway to becoming successful managerial leaders in the CRIP sector.

No. of beneficiaries: 55

Outcome of the Program:

- Students will gain clarity on career opportunities in the CRIP sector.
- Students will understand the skill gap between technical knowledge and managerial roles.

Subject: Letter of Thanks for Seminar on Transition from Technical Roles to Managerial Leadership in CRIP Sector for Civil Engineering Department.

Respected Madam,

Greetings from ABMSP's Anantrao Pawar College of Engineering & Research (APCOER), Pune. On behalf of the Civil Engineering Department, I would like to express our sincere gratitude for conducting the insightful seminar on "Transition from Technical Roles to Managerial Leadership in CRIP Sector."

The session was highly informative and provided valuable guidance to our students on the evolving demands of the Construction, Real Estate, Infrastructure, and Project (CRIP) sector. The speaker's expertise and practical insights helped students understand the importance of managerial skills, leadership qualities, and industry expectations beyond technical knowledge.

The seminar has significantly contributed to broadening the perspective of our students and motivating them to prepare for leadership roles in their professional careers. The interactive nature of the session and real-world examples made it engaging and impactful.

We truly appreciate the time and effort taken to share your knowledge and experience with our students. We look forward to organizing more such sessions in the future for the benefit of our students.

Thank you once again for your valuable contribution.

Yours faithfully,
